Individuals, faces in the crowd.
Fit them together,
piece by piece,
color by color.
Watch the pattern form;
let the picture dazzle you.
If a fragment is lost,
the picture is incomplete;
for it takes every face, every soul,
to make the mosaic that is

When Beth Dickershaid was a little girl, she liked to watch baton twirlers in parades. Now Beth ranks among the best of those she so admired as a youngster, having already won twenty-four medals and eleven trophies. In addition to these accomplishments, Beth is involved in Merrit Dance Studio's Performers Club, in International Teachers Twirlers Institute, and performs in Merrit's annual Christmas television show.

"How did you do on the Regents?"
Most people would be satisfied to be able to say "I passed," but one senior, John Carl, can claim near perfection in all of his math and science Regents: 99 in biology, and 98 in chemistry. In 1974, when the Math 10 Regents were cancelled, John managed to obtain a 98 average for his final course mark.

Math and science aren't John's only strong subjects. He received a 95 on both the history and English Regents. John attributes his success to the 11th grade American Studies Program.

John is planning to attend RPI, which recently cited him for his outstanding grades, but he confesses that he'd really like "to be a ski bum."

Guilderland has its share of talented musicians and one of the most talented is Rolly Merrill who plays the drums for just about every musical group in school. Rolly plays in three bands, the orchestra, the wind ensemble, and the musical.

The thing most people know Rolly for, however, is the fact that he plays his cheeks. Since the fourth grade, Rolly has been slapping out light and snappy tunes to any songs he knows. Two years ago, Rolly won second prize in the Key Club Talent Show for playing the William Tell Overture on his cheeks!

Few of us will ever get a chance to do the ultimate—to save another person's life. For one heroic Guilderland student, however, the chance came and, fortunately, he was quick enough to make the best of it.

While traveling home early one Saturday morning in late August, sixteen year old Pat Bennison noticed a young girl along the side of the road frantically trying to flag down a car. Nearby, an overturned automobile, with an eighteen year old girl trapped inside, was in flames.

After the driver of the car pulled over, young Bennison quickly ran to the overturned car and attempted to open the door. When it wouldn't open, Pat kicked in the window enough to make an opening, then reached in and pulled the bleeding girl out, and carried her away from the burning car. Minutes later the overturned car exploded, causing flames to shoot between 150 to 200 feet high.

The girl, an eighteen year old resident of Delmar, was later brought to Albany Medical Center suffering from a fractured elbow and arm and head injuries.

For his heroic action, Bennison was cited by President Gerald Ford. Pat received a plaque commending him for his "exceptional bravery." He also received an award and a $50 savings bond from the Elks Club of Guilderland.

Lynn Muller is sixteen years old and has been dancing half her life. What started as a hobby at eight has become almost a way of life for Lynn. In addition to taking lessons every day for one and a half to two hours and doing stretching exercises for twenty minutes daily, she spends most of her spare time practicing with Phyllis Marmine's Ballet Workshop. Even her diet has been affected by her dancing. Lynn eats no meat since meats give her poor muscle tone.

In the past eight years Lynn has gone to many ballet camps throughout the United States. Sometime in the near future Lynn hopes to study dancing abroad, preferably in Germany or France. Lynn's instructors are confident that she will be successful.

In an art as difficult and demanding as ballet, one might expect that gratification would come from competition and awards. This is not true. According to Lynn, the real gratification of ballet comes from being satisfied with one's own ability and progress.

Spending two weeks on a naval ship on the Atlantic isn't a common experience for high school students, but it's one Jim Garafallou had last summer as a member of the United States Navy Sea Cadet Corps.

Jim joined the Cadets in his sophomore year. Besides spending two weeks at sea, Jim has also been to USN bootcamp in Great Lakes and to the Navy Construction Battallion Center in Gulfport, Mississippi, for a disaster recovery, first-aid and combat course. In the past two years, Jim has been aboard three naval ships as part of his training.

After graduation, Jim plans to attend college at RPI in the NROTC Program. He would like to become an architect some day. Whether he attends college or joins the regular navy, Jim thinks his Sea Cadet experience will be a great benefit to him.

Senior Class Officers

The senior class officers, under the guidance of Mrs. Stephanie Cooper, planned an activity per month for the class of '77.

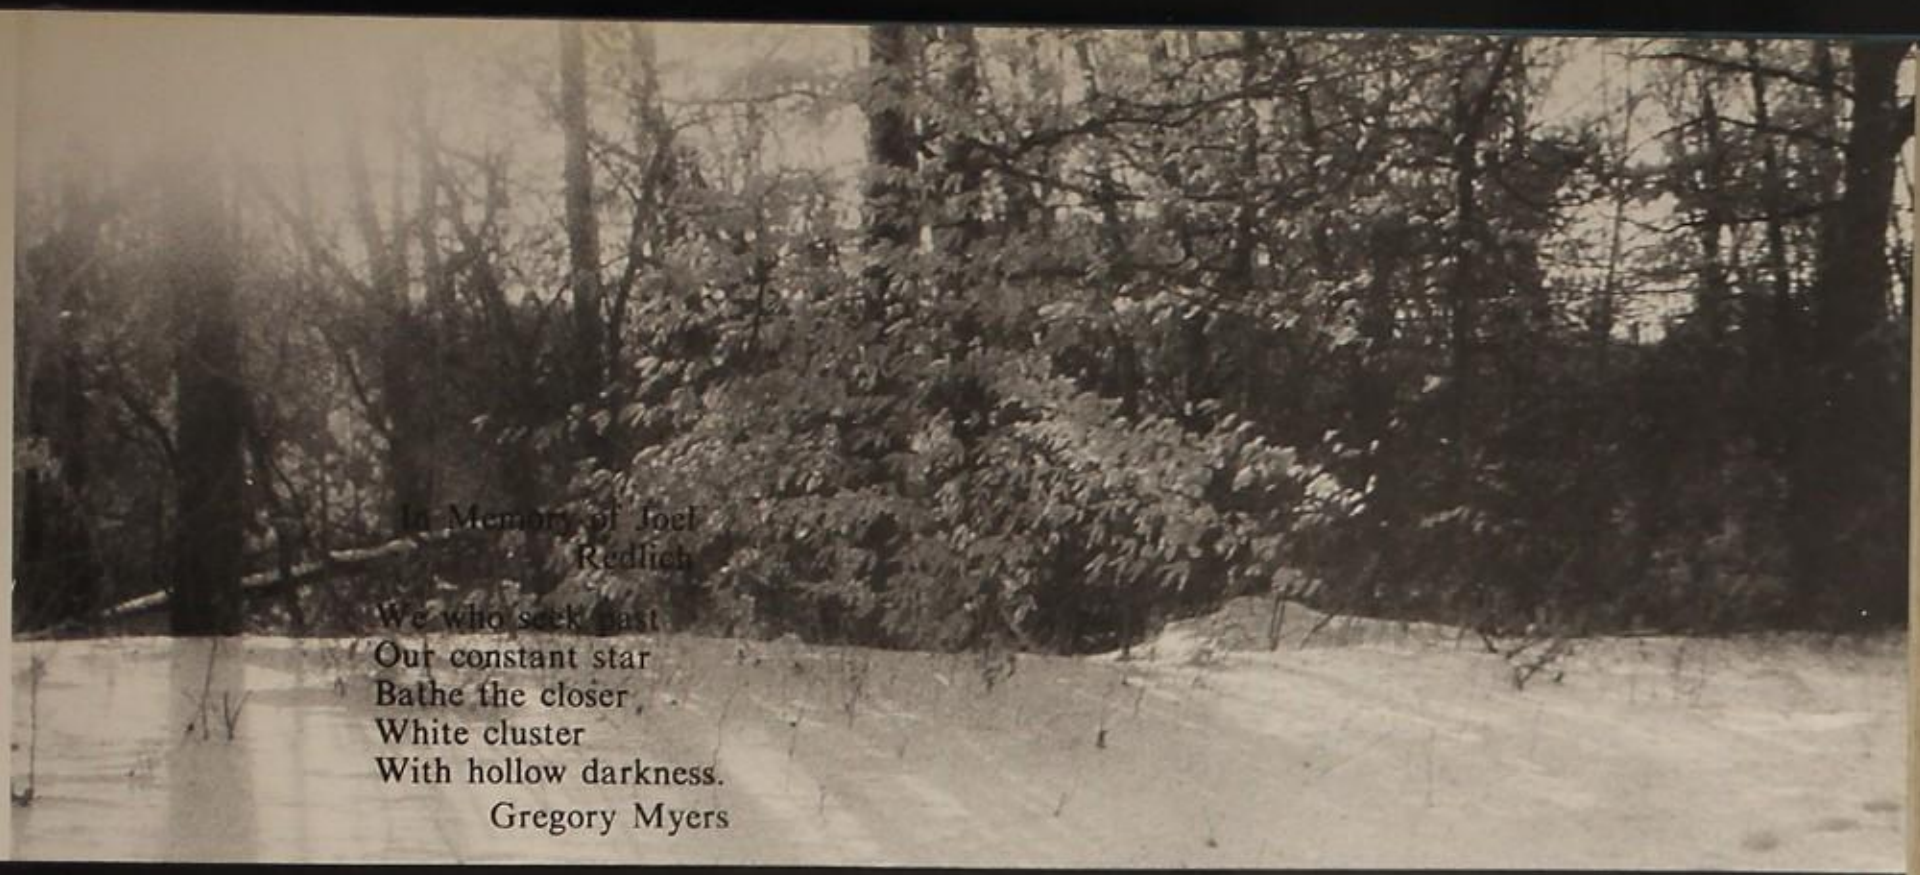
During September and October, the main activity was the READERS' DIGEST magazine campaign which raised almost $900.

The unseasonably cold winds of November brought an exciting and fun-filled invitational Powderpuff Football Game against Shaker High's senior girls. The chocolate-cream pie-eating contest held at half-time was an event that won't be forgotten for a long time.

During December the seniors came out in full force for the traditional window-painting. Because of the seniors' artistic efforts, the holiday spitit could be felt in the corridors near the auditorium.

The winter months brought a class ski trip to Whiteface Mountain and an open gym night marked by exercise games and pizza.

In the spring, the seniors and their parents met at the Crossroads Restaurant for a dinner dance. The spring class trip and the Senior Ball were the two final items on the Calendar. The Senior Ball, held at Michael's Banquet House in Latham, was preceded by a social hour.



In Memory of Joel Redlich

We who seek past
Our constant star
Bathe the closer
White cluster
With hollow darkness.

Gregory Myers

In Memory of Tim Grey

by Mark Lunt

"Tim Grey was a very good friend of mine. When I moved here in third grade, he was one of the first friends I made. Many things can be said of Tim, but the first thing that comes to mind was his sense of humor. His practical jokes and general clownish antics always made him fun to be with. Instances could be recited, but I feel it is best to let these memories remain in the hearts and minds of those who knew Tim.

"Tim was a great lover of life. Not one to worry about the future, he lived one day at a time.

"Although Tim died young, he crammed as much living into eighteen years as anyone could possibly hope for."

Stewart A. Muztafago, who was graduated from Guilderland in June, 1976, died that August in a tragic car accident at Cape Cod. Below are excerpts from the eulogy Stewart's brother Steve wrote for the funeral mass:

"No person who knew Stewart ever imagines or can believe that he has been taken from us in such short time.

"In his lifetime, Stewart had accomplished goals that I and many others consider only dreams. As I look around, I see one of these accomplishments: his friends. Stewart had many things that were close to him and that he thought were important, but of all those things, he put his friends above them all. His friends made Stewart what he was, and I'm sure he gave all of you his love. To be with him was always fun, and he would have it no other way.

" . . . Stewart left a lot of himself with us, and for this much we should be grateful. He left us with the memory of him, which even time fails to make us forget.

" . . . I know we are all very sorry to see Stewart leave us and that is what hurts us so much.

"Stewart, we still miss and love you more than ever, and our only regret is that we have to wait so long to see you again. You are with us every day, but I guess you know it is not the same. We love."

Looking serious is hard for Melissa Plemons when she knows she's being photographed.

A trip to New York City to see the New York Mets baseball team, a trip to Riverside Park, a dance with a DJ or a band—these were the plans of the freshman class officers at the beginning of the year. But as their president Patty Mastrianni told the class, "We can't do anything unless we get money."

To raise money, the freshmen became light bulb hawkers. The successful fund-raiser netted over $800 for class activities.

Guilderland's Jet-Setters

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE. To many people, these three words bring visions of exotic customs and unusual experiences. For the AFS'ers connected with Guilderland, the words meant that and much more.

For KAREN CIACCIO, who spent a summer in the small German town of Tonning, AFS was an opportunity to examine a different culture and to see it from a point of view different from that of a tourist. Few tourists find out, as Karen did, what it's like to be a German student—to catch a 6:15 train every morning except Sunday to get to school, to take at least ten subjects, to have no free time during the school day except for ten minutes between two classes, to be back home by one o'clock for the noon meal.

For DARYLL KNOWLES, AFS'er from Australia, his experience in Guilderland was an opportunity to learn more about himself and more about other people than he had ever known. He is grateful to the people of Guilderland for giving him the opportunity, particularly grateful to his friends:

"When people ask me about what made my stay in the U.S. a happy one, there is one thing to which I can attribute 90% of my happiness and that is the people. Without the friends that I made in Guilderland and outside, my year would have been an empty shell."

AFS isn't the only foreign exchange program operating in Guilderland. As part of the Rotary Exchange Program, Pia Jensen came to Guilderland from Denmark, and Patrick Santillo spent a year in Izuni City on Kyshu Island in Japan.

For PATRICK SANTILLO, Japanese culture held many surprises. He found that Japanese students go to school six days a week, wear uniforms which are considered formal dress, and spend twenty minutes a day cleaning their school because there are no janitors.

Pat perhaps best summed up the foreign exchange experience when he said:

"In Japanese they call me a 'kokangakusei,' and in English I'm called an 'exchange student.' But no matter what language you say it in, it signifies one of the most rewarding experiences open to high school students."

"The summer I spent in Turkey was one that I will not soon forget. I loved the people and the place, but probably the experience I'll remember most vividly was the day I met the family that I was to be staying with for two months.

"About thirty students and I were riding a bus from Istanbul to Bursa. It was my second day in Turkey, and I was anxiously awaiting the moment I'd meet my family. We had all been briefed on what to say, told to greet them with a kiss on both cheeks, and told all the other things we shouldn't say or do.

"Then came that dreadful moment when the bus pulled into the terminal. Five minutes later I heard, 'Beth, your family is here.' I couldn't move. For a moment I had the urge to say, 'She's not here. I think she missed the bus.' But I got up and made my way off the bus with the encouraging words of my friends behind me. What would these people think of me?

"There they were. I forgot how to say 'hello' in Turkish; I forgot to kiss them; I just forgot everything. But they didn't notice. Yes, they were as nervous as I was. My mother hugged me, they all kissed me, and then I knew . . . I knew everything was going to be all right. Sure enough—it was."

The retirement of Mrs. Hazel Cornelly in January occasioned a "first" by the Board of Education. Never before had the Board passed a Resolution of Appreciation for a member of the non-professional staff. The wording of the Resolution makes it clear why Mr. Ciaccio's secretary was singled out for this distinction.

"Mrs. Cornelly has performed her duties in a gracious manner which reflected her respect and understanding of the staff and students, giving of herself unstintingly to assist them with their problems, showing a sense of dedication and responsibility not only to the staff and children of the school community but also to the people of the school district."

It's hard to break old habits. So, even though she officially retired in June of 1976, Dorothy Jenner was back at the high school in December helping to raise money to buy food for needy families.

Raising money for the Christmas fund was just one of Mrs. Jenner's contributions to the school during her eighteen years as nurse-teacher. No one knows, of course, exactly how many students got high school diplomas because of Mrs. Jenner's prodding and counseling; it would be hard to prove that she did actually know more students and teachers by name than anyone else in the building. But no one who knows Mrs. Jenner needs proof of her generosity—generosity not only with material resources but with her time and friendship.

The retirements of Mrs. Jenner and Mrs. Cornelly left the school community with a feeling that something had been lost that was distinctively and essentially Guilderland. These two dedicated women were like the glue holding the pieces of mosaic together. Without them, the school will really not be the same.

No Cabin Fever Here

Cutting school isn't the only way Guilderland students get out of the building.

As part of the External Physical Education program, seventeen students leave school regularly to take judo lessons, play hockey, go horseback riding, study ballet, or take life saving instruction.

Other students get credit for job experience at places like the Watervliet Arsenal, the Guilderland Nursing Home, and Armory Garage.

The Home Economics Career Program sends students to such places as stores, cafeterias, nursing homes, and elementary schools so that they can "try out" potential careers before making definite commitments.

And, of course, there are three regular buses which take students from the high school to the BOCES Center.

Closed circuit television is now possible in all classes in the high school. Improvements in the media center were made during the summer under the direction of media specialist James Tusty, here shown working on the "mixer." Video has been used by many teachers for the improvement of instruction. For example, Orfeo Franzoni has made a series of tapes for his biology classes; Barbara Redmond had students make videtapes in connection with the study of JULIUS CAESAR; students regularly made tapes as projects for European Studies.

The brainchild of John Birchler, Independent Study in English allows students to work on their own on projects of their choice. The one-on-one encounters between teacher and student are an important part of the course. At right center, Jeanne Jarvis talks to Mr. Birchler about her paper on Sherlock Holmes.

Ninth grade teams" were new this year. Schedules of ninth graders were arranged so that a large block of students had the same teachers for most of their subjects. The schedules of the teachers were arranged so that they had time to meet to plan learning experiences and to discuss common problems. The interaction of some of the teams was very high, even extending to extra-curricular experiences. Below are the members of one apparently happy team: James Seaman, John Carley, Herbert Spencer, Sadie Schneider, Gigi Obloy, Susan Cohen and Sanford Furman.

What's New?

1972 grad: "What courses are you in this year?"
Current student: "AP Physics, aviation science, ISE, and Project Advance Sociology."
1972 grad: "What? I never even heard of those things when I was at GCHS."

So many new programs have started in the last five years that this imaginary dialogue could conceivably take place. As Director of Curriculum Dr. Joseph Purcell explains, "New programs are built to meet the changing needs of Guilderland students and teachers. They can add excitement to learning and teaching."

In addition to the programs mentioned above, other recent developments include:

. . . a home economics careers programs
. . . an offset lithography class
. . . the Adelphi Program in languages
. . . new programs for the handicapped
. . . a reading and math center in the East Building
. . . an external physical education program.

Obviously, the variety in the Guilderland mosaic is not an accident.

Senior Alternative Experience

A TV, stereo, sofas and a patchwork wall—can this be a classroom? Sure! It's the SAE room, considered "home" by forty-two seniors.

In the room, there may be two people studying and talking, another sitting on a soft but worn out sofa listening to rock 99, another talking casually to Mr. Pidgeon. A refrigerator stands by filled with refreshments brought in by the students.

The Senior Alternative Experience was designed to provide a greater diversity of programs and to allow students more freedom. Among the community experiences of this year's SAE'ers are tutoring at the Middle School, writing for the Altamont Enterprise, working at election headquarters, and working as librarian at Lynnwood Elementary School.

In their fourth year as an English-social studies team, Allan Sholtes and Richard Cascini work with a small class of ninth graders. At center, Mr. Cascini passes back a paper to Jean Maruzciak.(Insert) Mr. Sholtes helps Rick Stealy complete some work for a unit on the newspaper.

Teaming Up To Teach

1 + 1 = ? The answer is "more than two" if you're talking about the advantages of taking a course taught jointly by an English and history teacher. The success of their eleventh grade program in American Studies ("Hislish") led George Sengenberger and Barbara Olson to create a tenth grade interdisciplinary course in European Studies. Above, Fritz Meeusen gets the advantage of the team approach.

Teachers working together isn't so unusual, but when four teachers from four different academic areas get together to work on ONE course—that's something. The one-half year course is Design of Man which allows students to get credit in social studies, home economics, science and English (¼ credit in each).

The class meets for six mods a day to look at man's past, his present, his possible and his probable futures. Among topics covered in the course are bio-ethics, the place of mythology in man's evolution, and the family of the future.

Term Paper Trauma

"I can't find a book on the Spanish Armanda."
"Do you have magazines on George Orwell?"
"I need a biography of DaVinci."

From October to June, the school library is crowded with students "enthusiastically" searching for books on a variety of topics. Even SUNYA gets an influx of GCHS students who do term paper research in the college library and eat in the college cafeteria.

Students have different reactions to writing term papers. One student remarked, "I didn't get much from it." Another said, "I can see writing a term paper, but when teachers don't give them back it isn't fair." Believe it or not, a few students fine term papers "fun, a challenge." A couple of students claim to have made it to their senior year without ever writing a term paper, but most students do write their term papers, though reluctantly in some cases.

With concentration like that, Tim Dague and Jim Beach are sure to make the grade on their term papers.

Lively Labs

To many students, one class is just like another: the teacher talks, you take notes, you take tests every now and then, and that's it. The break comes with labs.

In science classes, every sixth day the students work on their own or in pairs dissecting frogs or cats, combining chemicals to obtain interesting results.

For many students, "lab day" provides a welcome relief from the daily routine and gives a chance to experiment on the things taught in formal classes.

Mike Bellecosa may look prepared for an atomic explosion, but he's just boiling water.

Writing down observations is one part of the scientist's job—a part Bill Young obviously doesn't mind.

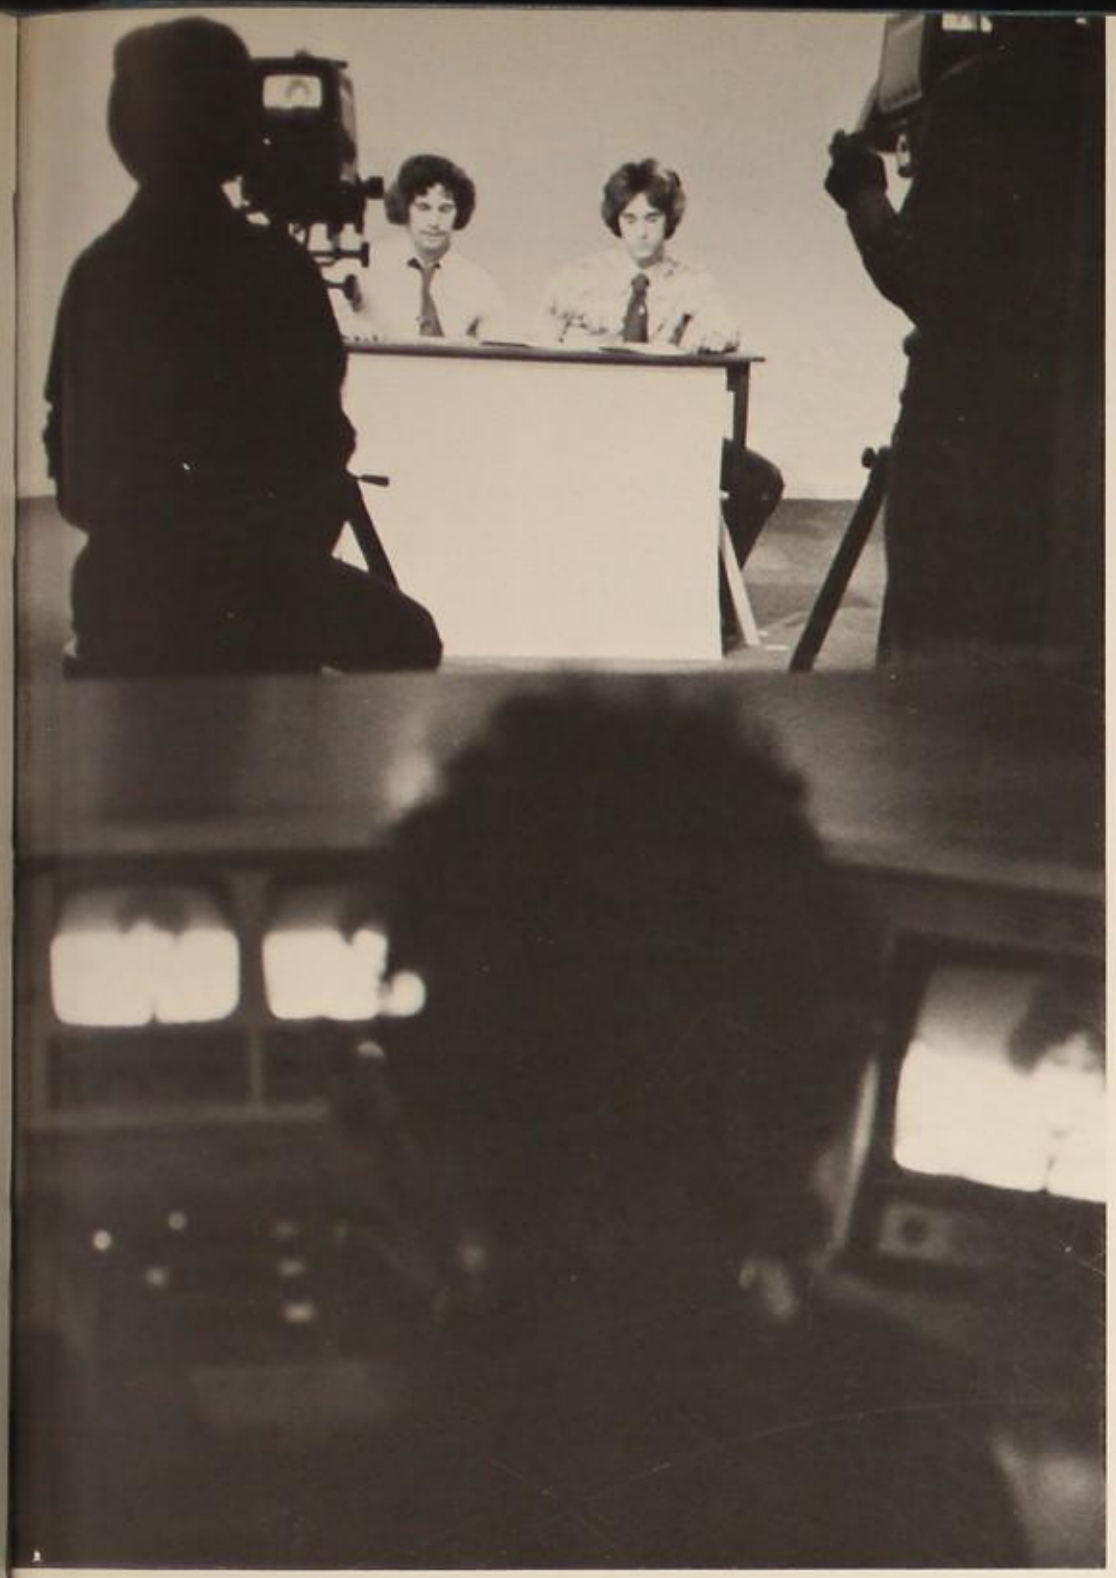
Dabbling In The Arts

(CLOCKWISE FROM ABOVE)
For a first year art student, Debbie Sperry does some impressive work.
One of many students doing independent work in art, Jolinda Abrams has been developing her talents for three years.
With Craig Shave directing and Cuyler VanDeCarr and John Endres on the cameras, Pat and Mike's project is sure to be a success.
For her SAE media course, Barb Bulman had to learn to operate the video-tape equipment.
So many teachers have been using the video tape equipment as a part of their classes that aide Tim Doyle needs a fat folder to keep track of projects in process.
Advance planning is the key to successful video tape projects as Mike Monroe and Pat Sheehan learn from consulting with Craig Shave.
Her project in ceramics class gets Amy Sgarlata's undivided attention.



GCHS has never lacked budding artists: sculptors, painters, ceramists. Every year many students display their creations at local art shows. And recently a whole new field of endeavor has opened up as students have begun to investigate the artistic use of videotape.

Missing People

Including every person and every program was a goal of the yearbook staff. However, it proved to be an unreachable goal. These pages, coming at the conclusion of the "People" section, are an attempt to include some of the people missed in the previous pages. Unfortunately, there are still some students and staff not included in the book.

Cars Vs. Buses

So you would rather drive a car to school than take the bus, would you? You've probably never thought of the advantages of riding a bus.

For one thing, when, if not while waiting for the bus, do you have the opportunity to be outside at 7:00 A.M. on a crisp winter morning, admiring the beautiful blue color of your fingertips? On a frosty day, if your friends grin and wave as they drive by the bus stop, you can answer with a deep purple smile, knowing they are missing out on the suspense of wondering whether or not the bus will make it through the snow.

You know you're in for a treat if the ancient yellow machine does arrive. As you climb up the steps, you are greeted by the melodic, enveloping screeches of a factory-rejected AM-FM radio. Then you feast your eyes on the luxurious interior of this amazing machine—namely the seats covered with an elegant seaweed green material.

If you're lucky enough to find an empty seat, you will be amazed to discover that when the bus moves the seats vibrate as vigorously as the most expensive massaging beds.

As you and the many, many others on the bus enjoy these experiences free of charge, you may also amuse yourself by reading the humorous messages posted on the front wall. For example, there's the old standby "Do not stand forward of white line."

Afraid you won't be aboard long enough to take advantage of all these comforts? Don't worry. Your friendly driver obligingly drives at no more than thirty miles per hour to insure that your experience on a Guilderland school bus will be a long and memorable one.

Coming to a New Place

9th grade Orientation

"Being a ninth grader is hard on you. The school is so big and you're so small. The age difference between you and a senior is great."

"The first day of school was confusing, but after a couple of days the high school was great."

"What's it like to be a ninth grader? It's being pushed and shoved and learning to push and shove back . . . There are SO many people it's like a miniature New York City . . . It's carrying more books than you've ever carried. It's walking 250 miles a day just going to classes. It's having to get up SO early."

"Being a ninth grader isn't the best because nobody pays any attention to you. The big kids don't pick on you. They just walk right by you."

"When they told us of all the activities there were, right away I wanted to get involved in everything."

"Once you get used to it, school becomes a boring daily routine."

"I can't wait until I'm a senior. Then I can be one of the big shots."

(Quotes are from a group of ninth graders who were asked in October, "What's it like to be a ninth grader?")

Everyone at GCHS has his own style, but there are some definite fashion trends this year. Walking down the hall, you're likely to see gauchos and boots; knee-length skirts, cowl neck sweaters and bulky cardigans; jumpsuits; skirts and blazers with platform shoes or clogs.

The dressier segment of the male student body wears corduroy levis, a matching jacket, a coordinated shirt, and—occasionally—a leather jacket.

Jean jackets decorated with patches, overalls, painters' pants, sweat shirt jackets, earth shoes, and crazy-patterned socks are unisex favorites.

The trend in hair styles is toward short hair for both girls and boys. The "wedge' and the short, curly haircut are popular with girls who pay up to $14.00 per haircut. Many boys also have their hair styled, sometimes paying as much as the girls to have the job done.

BOYS' VARSITY SOCCER

The season began on a promising note with a new field and ended with a sixth suburban council championship. The team compiled an overall 14-3 record.

The whole team was outstanding in defense and offense and ten players made the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE'S All-Star Team: Ed DuGuay, Dan Powers and Greg Hilt to the first team; Eric Laier and Jon Angellotti to the second team; Brian Moxey, Jody Knauss, Joe Reppenhagen and Joe Mihal with honorable mention.

Ed DuGuay was a real standout, breaking and tying records everywhere. He was named to the first team of the New York All Star Team and then was named All-American, an honor given to only thirty-three players in the United States.

J.V. Soccer Finishes In Second Place

When you think about a J.V. team, you figure that most of the players will be juniors, but this year's J.V. soccer team consisted of twenty-eight sophomores and one freshman. This year was the first time no juniors were on the team.

The season proved to be a very successful one. With a 10-3-1 record, the squad finished in a strong second place behind Burnt-Hills.

Many people were playing new positions or playing for the first time. Before the season even started, because the team didn't have a goalie, Larry Pisarski volunteered for the position. In spite of his inexperience, he did a great job. Jeff Hilt played competitive soccer for the first time and was a key factor in the team's winning record. Khris Clemens, a freshman, led in the scoring with nine goals.

For the sectionals, Jeff and Khris were moved up to varsity, along with Mike Pelkey, Shayne Armstrong and Mark Stevens.

MIDDLE: Khris Clemens finds himself all alone while dribbling toward the goal.

The freshmen soccer team finished their schedule with a 2-8-2 record. The squad's defense held up well, never giving up more than three goals a game, but the offense just couldn't score enough goals. All the games were closely fought battles with the difference in the score often being only one goal.

Throughout the season the whole team worked together putting forth their best effort. A few outstanding players, though, were Brian Leninger, Mickey Cleary, Dave Knauss and Jimmy Gula playing offense on the forward line. Sparking the defense were John O'Donnell, Bob Frederick and John Purcell playing at the fullback spots.

"We were all a big group of friends" was the way one member of the girls' varsity soccer team described the season. Injuries put seven different girls on the bench at various games but did not hold the team back. The girls finished the season with a 10-3-1 record, earning fourth place in the league standings.

A defeat in their last game of the season kept the team out of the first sectionals ever held in this area for girls' soccer. Only the top two teams from each council were allowed to participate in the sectionals.

This year the players were awarded two points for a goal and one point for a penalty, instead of one point for everything. Over one-hundred points were tallied by the offense for the year. Michele St. Pierre led the team with a composite of thirty-two points for the fourteen games; Dixie Daily had twenty-two.

Awards were given to Norine Ryan, who was voted by the team as Most Valuable Player; to Patty Soule, who received the Most Improved trophy; and to Dixie Daily, who was awarded the sportsmanship trophy.

Twenty-one enthusiastic girls comprised the J.V. soccer team this year. Headed by Coach Melanie Hayden, a new physical education teacher, the girls turned out a 4-8-1 season. Their record doesn't show the team's dedication to the sport of soccer or the girls' will to win.

The team was led and held together by co-captains Sue Towers and Ellen Hornbach. High scorer for the year was Terry Conway.

At the end of season the girls voted Sue Jarvis the most valuable player award; Mel Hein was voted the most improved player award; and Lynn Ann Safford received an award for displaying the best sportsmanship.

"Fun-loving" and "hard-working" are the two phrases that best describe these young athletes.

For the first time ever at GCHS, there was a girls' freshmen soccer team. The overwhelming number of girls who attended tryouts, about seventy, made it possible to form a new team. This new addition will be giving the Varsity and J.V. coaches experienced players for the coming years.

Miss Pecor, a student teacher, took on the coaching job. The girls' season was not as long as the Varsity and J.V., but an expanded schedule is expected next year.

The season ended with a banquet at the Bavarian Chalet on November 21. There the girls presented Miss Pecor with a plaque and a dozen roses while they also voted Dawn Janerich the most valuable player.

Varsity Football

The highly spirited varsity team—led by tri-captains Jim Smith, Kevin Chase and John Barry under the coaching of Mr. Kenyon—finished the season with a record of six wins, three losses. The most crucial game of the season was the win over Colonie which assured the boys of a third place spot instead of a sixth position.

The team earned many awards and honors. Mike Ryan was named to first place offense by three local newspapers and to second team offense by a fourth. In addition, he won the Thom McCann Award, which is a scholar and athlete award, and was named to the second team of the All-State as quarterback. Other players given berths on the All-Star teams of local newspapers were Keith Kenyon, Dave Miller, Kevin Chase, Bud Milliman, Dan Anderson, John Barry, Jim Smith

J.V. Football Takes Second Place

Coming from behind, the J.V. football team finished the season with a 6-3 record. This was good enough for a second place in our council behind the always powerful Shenendehowa squad.

Early in the year, things didn't look good. Down in the council standings at one point with only one win and three losses, the team went on a five game winning streak, the best showing ever by a J.V. team.

The entire season was marked by a tremendous team effort, but a few players were great standouts. Quarterback Jeff Jones, only a sophomore, led the team while much of the offense was handled by Pat Sheehan, who scored seven touchdowns, and Tony Muztafago with four touchdowns.

Coach Hotaling attributes all of the team's success to three factors: pride, determination and confidence. He said, "We had pride in ourselves, our team and our school. We had the determination to learn, to improve, and to win. And finally, we had confidence in ourselves, in each other, and in the program."

The freshmen football team wrapped up their season with a 1-5-1 record. Their short schedule proved to be a disadvantage for it was not till the end of the season that the team finally won its first game against Mohonasen and tied another game with Niskayuna.

Much of the offense was handled by quarterback Paul Graffeo and running back Jeff Roberts. Defensive linebackers Gary Booker and Kevin Honnick also had excellent seasons. Four eighth graders, Jay Sikorski, Greg Mele, Mike Farley, and Frank Gallo, started many times during the season gaining valuable experience.

This year the squad had a new head coach in Coach Slattery, an elementary school teacher, but Coach Pidgeon returned as the assistant coach.

Tennis in the fall you say? Yes! Because of the unavailability of courts in the spring, the girls' tennis team was forced to play during the fall.

The team registered the first victory for a girls' team since one began competing three years ago. A final record of 3-5-0 marked the season's end.

One unusual thing about the season was the lack of any referees or umpires. The girls warmed up for as long as they wanted; they began the match when they were ready; and each girl called her own lines.

Mr. Larry Rorick, a physical education teacher at the Middle School, took over the coaching post this year. Mr. Rorick has had previous coaching experience.

1976 was an outstanding year for the golf team. Not only did the team win the Suburban Council Championship, but also won the Suburban Council Tournament.

According to Coach Spohr, each member of the team contributed to the success. Coach said that the 10-2-2 record was achieved because each boy did his part and made a tremendous individual contribution.

Varsity Surprises Council

"There is no star on the team" was a comment made by senior player Mike Richardson when he was asked about the varsity basketball squad. Defeated in the first three games, the team came back to win the next seven. The squad's most spectacular win was against first place Shaker.

Much of the credit for this year's success was due to the scoring punch of Mike and Dan Ryan and the strong defense of Mark Hotchkiss and Joe Amato.

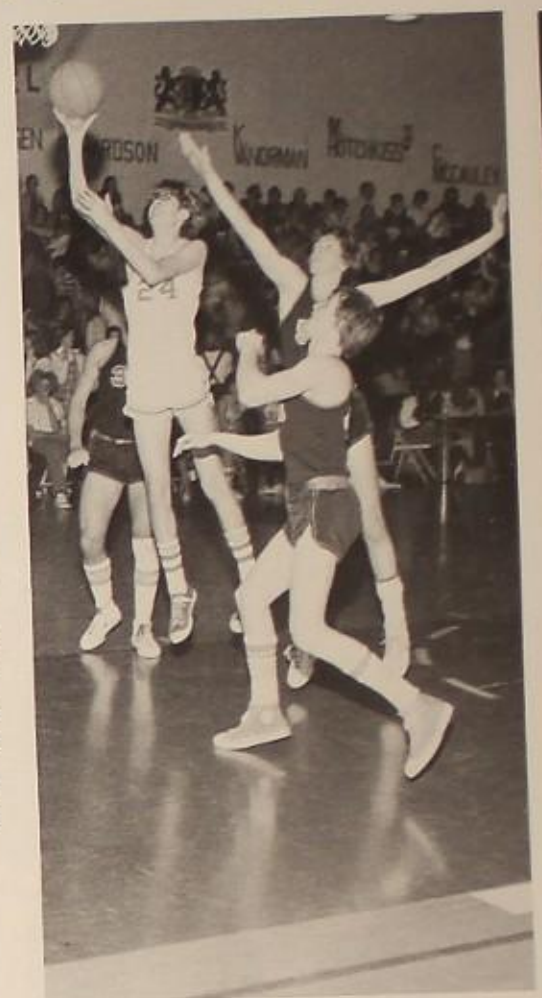
J.V. Basketball

Caught between three Mohonasen defenders, Chris Lant shoots a hard-fought two points.

Jeff Chambers' attempt at a lay-up is blocked at the last second by his Niskayuna opponent.



Although the squad members put forth their best effort, the J.V. basketball team had a disappointing season. The top priority of first year coach Tom Dibble was improving the squad's fundamental skills. His next emphasis was on defense and basic team work. The improvement that the team showed during the season makes Coach Dibble optimistic about next year.

As the season started, the freshmen basketball team was looking forward to a winning season with talented Khris Clemens, John Amato, and six foot Kevin Honnick filling three of the starting positions. Things didn't turn out as well as the squad hoped, however. Second year coach Glenn Harrison felt that the players needed to work together more as a team. One spectator commented, "The boys play well in the first two quarters, but something happens in the third and fourth quarters and the opposing team pulls away."

Khris Clemens drives to the hoop for an easy lay-up.

As Bob Paskiewicz finds himself near the basket, he takes a short jump shot.

Gymnastics

A third consecutive Suburban Council Championship was the aim of this year's gymnastics team. One very important win for the team was over a tough Shaker team, the closest competitor for the championship.

Despite the loss of seniors Lori Rissacher and Marcia Pierce, the team performed well with such standouts as Sharon Serrel, Beth Sholtes, and freshman Lori Sholtes.

Patty Mastrianni does a squat vault during her warm up before a match.

Flying through the air, Beth Sholtes does a side leap in her floor exercise routine.

Michele Johnson poses on the balance beam before she performs her next move.

Lori Sholtes does a handspring vault which she uses in competition.

Michele Dechene is concentrating on her strength move on the balance beam after straddling down from a handstand.

Co-captain Debbie Aziz does a stoup on the uneven bars with Kathy Mastrianni spotting.

Varsity Wrestling

Keith Kenyon, co-captain, takes the offensive.

Taking the neutral stance to start off the first period is Ron Czarnetsky.

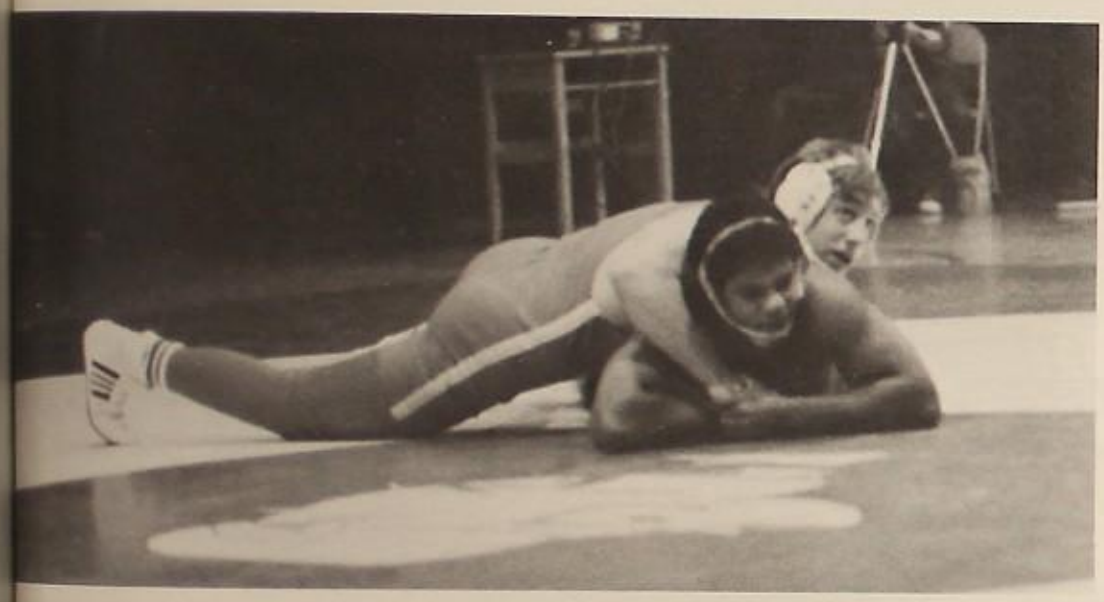
The varsity team closed out their regular season with four wins and five losses in Suburban Council matches.

The highlight of the year was the annual Webster Tournament in Rochester where co-captain Paul Hornbach captured three trophies. Paul won a trophy for taking first place in his weight class, one for pinning the most opponents (three in three matches), and finally one for being voted the most valuable wrestler. It was the first time in Guilderland's history that one wrestler had captured all three trophies.



Gary Miltner breathes easy after a hard fought match results in another victory.

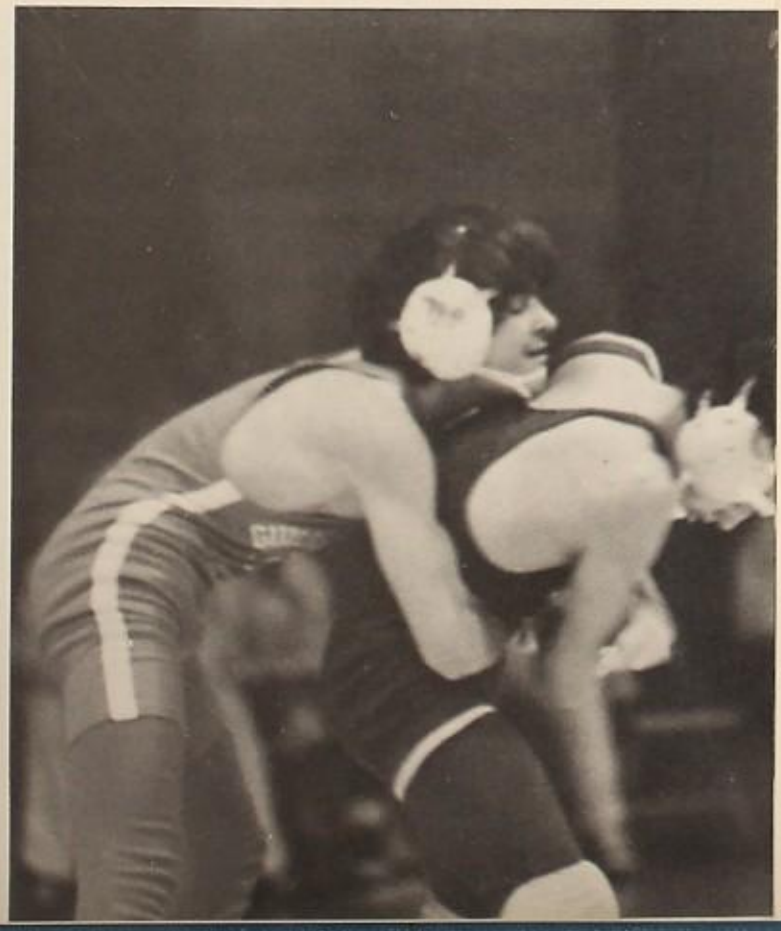
Co-captain Paul Hornbach takes control with a cross face to his Amsterdam opponent.

Adam Prysmont is about to take his adversary down to the mat for a pin.



J.V. And Freshmen Wrestling

The J.V. squad ended their Suburban Council season with a 2-7-0 record. One varsity wrestler claimed the less than successful year was due to the team competing without a full squad. Three wrestlers Ed Foley, Mike Vottis and Ron Czarnetsky displayed such outstanding improvement that they were moved up to the varsity team. Tom Wyld who stayed at the J.V. also had an excellent year.

Bill Hadersbeck finds himself in trouble as his opponent brings him down with a reverse.

Joe Bosco checks out his competition as the first period is about to begin.

Planting himself on the mat, Ron Collen uses a cross face against his Amsterdam contender.

Phil DeCoco tries to keep his balance as he brings opponent down on the mat.

With his leg held fast, Jeff Jones discovers he is in a deadlock.

Freshman Jim Panariello attempts to pin his opponent.

Large Turnout For Ski Team

The ski team once again could boast abouts its unique features. With approximately forty-five members, it was one of the largest teams in the school and the only team with girls and guys together. Actually two teams in one (cross-country and downhill), the ski team had a successful season. Jim Roberts and John Rosenbach finished first and second, respectively, in many downhill races and were chosen to compete in the State Meet at Lake Placid. Torsten Oberst competed in the cross-country race. A MVP award was presented to Ed Vadney, and the most improved player awards went to Sharon Salmon and Mike Martin.

Varsity Volleyball

Hampered by inexperienced and injury, the varsity volleyball team didn't have a great season. The win over Mohonasen provided one of the few bright spots. According to Joe Mihal, even though the team didn't win many matches, the players had a good time and became a very close team.

The girls' varsity volleyball team closed out their season with a record of 5-4. Captains Lynn Siebert, Sheila O'Donnell and Dixie Daily led the squad. The strategy of the girls was to play with two setters and four spikers. The setters gave the ball to the spikers who in turn hit the ball down hard at their opponents. Sheila O'Donnell proved to have an excellent strong serve and Pia Jensen greatly improved her overall ability for a first year player. Coach Hainey commented, "The girls played well and lost some close games."

J.V. Volleyball

The girls' J.V. volleyball team finished their season with no wins and eight losses. Though the girls won some games, they could never win the two games they needed for a match victory. Their poor season was in part due to the inexperience of the mainly freshmen and sophomore team. However, the squad did have such standouts as Sue Jarvis, Andrea Miller and Karen Pietrusiak.

CENTER: Chris Arket rushes forward to save a return.

RIGHT: Lisa Friebel bumps a short serve back over the net.

J.V. Volleyball

The boys' J.V. volleyball squad didn't have one of its best seasons. However, the outstanding play of sophomores Jim Montrym and Charlie Carrow makes the picture look bright for next year. Five of the junior varsity players were moved up to the varsity for the sectionals.

The success of the varsity squad in making it to the Sectionals can be attributed to the efforts of the three leading scorers (Sheila O'Donnell, Michele St. Pierre, and Fleda Palmer) and to the strong defensive play of the whole team. A key to their game, Sheila explained, was the fast pace the team set by running constantly. Although the team members weren't very tall, Coach Hill added, they made up for lack of height with their intense and dynamic play.

Fleda Palmer breaks away after stealing the ball.

Coach Hill and the team share a joke as another victory is notched.

To start the first quarter, Fleda Palmer takes control of the jump ball.

Michele St. Pierre makes a layup for an easy basket.

J.V. Basketball

It was a year of first experience for the JV basketball team—the first basketball coaching job for Coach Melanie Hayden and the first time playing for ten out of the twelve girls on the team.

To an outsider the team's record may not seem outstanding, but the improvement made during the year was impressive. By the end of the season, it was a totally different team from the one that started the year. According to Coach Hayden, when the going got tough, the girls never lost their sense of humor and always had lots of fun.

Conservation Club

A rapidly growing group, Conservation Club had many activities: a club dinner in December, a winter camping trip in February, an annual canoe trip in May. In addition, the twenty-five club members did a random survey of students' views on environmental issues. The survey will be published in NATIONAL WILDLIFE. Co-advisors, Mr. Beebe and Mr. Furman, also helped members arrange for the showing of films on camping safety and wildlife.

Debate Club

More akin to a team than a club, Debate Club is an organization which participates in regional speech and debate tournaments against other schools. It's a club for those who wish to sharpen their speaking skills in competition. Over the last three years the club has consistently done well in competition, on its first year winning a first-place team trophy and this year placing fourth out of thirteen schools. Two of this year's members, Mike Behn and Mike Bellacosa, won a third place trophy. The club's advisor is Mr. Hotaling, but Mr. Sengenberger and Mr. Dwyer volunteered to judge in some of the tournaments.

Wrestling Pep Club

The Wrestling Pep Club is an organization of girls who attend home wrestling matches to pass out programs, announce crossmats, and run the timer and electric score boards. In preparation for the games, the girls design posters for the bulletin boards and make signs identifying wrestlers. But their most important function is to give the team support, spirit, and enthusiasm.

Mother Nature did not cooperate with the Ski Club this year. Trips were scheduled every other weekend, but many had to be cancelled because of lack of snow.

In an effort to make the ski trips less expensive, the 200 club members ran a candle sale during the Christmas season and sold refreshments at basketball games. Club advisor was Mr. Don Kline.

Student Government

Guilderland's elected representatives had a busy year during 1976-77. President Ken Malloy and the other members of the Executive Committee had many goals: arranging exchanges with various suburban council schools, opening outside areas for student use, getting permission for students to leave the school grounds. Student Government members worked actively with administrators and teachers on the STUDENT RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES HANDBOOK, and also helped out in the Cerebral Palsy Telethon.

In Production

There are a lot of headaches in putting on a show the size of the shows the Guilderland Players produce. Costumes don't come in on time; people never know where they're supposed to be when they a say a line; the stage crew hammers at the wrong times; the dancers complain about their aching muscles . . . . The list goes on and on. Sometimes there are so many complaints that it seems the only thing to do is to leave town—and fast.

But there are also good times during the rehearsal—from the day when the cast reads the script for the first time and must stop after every line because they're overcome with laughter, 'til the last rehearsal when the pink "chicken salad" makes its debut.

Something must get through to the dedicated cast and crew of every show because for the most part, they always come back, year after year after year. Whether it's just the fun and fellowship of the group or whether they're waiting to be discovered, they come back despite the aches and pains. Maybe it's the overwhelming pride and joy they feel on opening night as they sing the finale and the crowd stands and applauds for them. A three minute ovation is enough to make 150 kids forget the aches and pains and long rehearsals and say "I'm coming back next year."

Many people work behind the scenes to create the magic that happens on stage. Some of the people behind the scenes for KISS ME KATE were student director Sue Kamp, assistant vocal director Richard Arnold, vocal director Agnes Armstrong, producer-director Fred Heitkamp, and choreographer Gigi Obloy.

Honor Society

A car wash, a ski trip and a bake sale were just three of the Honor Society's activities during a very active year. Part of the Society's success this year can be attributed to Kathy Byrnes, the president, who enforced the mandatory attendance rules. Journal

Increasing the reader's knowledge of the operation, people, and benefits of GCHS was a primary goal of the JOURNAL, according to senior editor Andy Stauffer. Although faced with monumental financial difficulties, the staff, together with business manager Jeff Reilly and adviser Thomas Smith, strove to produce ten issues, one for every month of the school year. Open to contributions from members of all grades, this paper with a twenty-eight year tradition had a wide variety of columns, features, and art work while maintaining an accuracy in reporting and a fairness in editorial policy.

Nike

For the past two years, secretarial practice students have been doing secretarial and office work for faculty members. The twenty-four students in NIKE have typed tests, a textbook, work sheets, puzzles, study guides, and material for publication. They have also done a bulk mailing project, errands, office rearrangement and organization, and other out-of-class activities. As the year progresses, the activities become more complex and varied to test the skills of the students as they complete the subject matter of the course.

Swim Club

Swimming was not a common sport at GCHS until this year. Every Saturday these students used the SUNY pool for practice, training, and enjoyment. Although they did not swim competitively, the Swim Club participated in strenuous practice sessions to keep in shape.

Perry Renshaw, Marty Lininger, Amy Lininger, Amy Mataraso, Paul DeAlleaume.

Advanced Physics Club

Running up and down the stairs of the west building, playing with slinkies in the hall of the art wing, drawing vector diagrams for the senior class window painting contest, and having Wednesday teas are just a few of the things that the Advanced Physics Club does. In its first year of existence at GCHS, the A.P. Club is alive and doing well. Headed by Mr. "10-4" Bradley, this eighteen member club meets four times every cycle.

Skeet Shooting Club

Skeet shooting is a competitive sport in which a shooter attempts to break a clay target. The idea is to lead the target and then shoot it with a gun. The club practices at the Watervliet Fish and Game Club each Thursday night, weather permitting. As team member Tony Russo puts it, "practice makes a perfect skeet shooter."

Yearbook photographer Ron Baker is on the receiving end for once.

Two members of the Advanced Physics Club use vector diagrams on their Christmas window.

At the Conservation Club's first meeting in September, Lydia Treadway explains the obligations of officers.

Sceptre

Sceptre does more than you think! In the past year, Sceptre has put on the Homecoming Dance, the Faculty Tea, the Donkey Basketball Game and the Easter Egg Hunt for the kids in the Community. It takes money for each of these activities to function. Sceptre has managed to raise money by bake sales, car washes, candy sales, and various stationery sales.

Besides raising money and doing community work, Sceptre had fun activities for the girls—a Christmas party and a formal banquet at the end of the year.

The sponsor for this active club was Mrs. Nan Rosenbach. Credit for this year's success goes to her and to president Betsy Mengel, vice-president Beth Lott, secretary Paige Killoran, treasurer Pam Williams, and historian Chris Donohue.

OFFICERS: Mrs. Rosenbach (Advisor), Paige Killeran, Pam Williams, Betsy Mengel, Chris Donahue.

International Club

People are different; yet they're alike. That's a belief that members of the International Club all have in common. This year club members again held an exchange week-end with area foreign exchange students. During December, a Christmas Party was held at a member's house. Ms. Karol Harlow, the club advisor, pronounced the year a successful one for the club.

International Club Members

Key Club

The 1976-77 GCHS Key Club had a very rewarding year. The Alcohol Awareness Conference was the club's project for the year with over 30 schools participating. The Club also sponsored a benefit concert for Rich Stevens which was also a success. The members ushered at the school musical and ran various concession stands at school functions.

The Key Club also helped the community by holding a canned food drive, with the help of Mrs. Jenner. Bingo at Eden Park Nursing Home was also a memorable event for this group.

Led by Mr. Grimstead, the Key Club hopes it will continue to serve the school and the community to the fullest.

Torch

Founded in February of 1971, The Torch Youth Organization has as its primary purpose to provide an atmosphere that is free of the pressure of drugs and alcohol. In its six years of existence, Torch has served thousands of teenagers in the Guilderland Community, providing coffeehouses, dances, movies overnight trips, camping trips, special events, and—most recently—disco nights.

The performers at Torch range from local amateur to the very professional. Housed in the Old Town Hall on Willow Street in Guilderland, Torch is completely independent and thus not affiliated with any governmental agency or with the school district.

The members of Torch have provided many community services and welcome requests from people in the community. Torch is open to all students from eighth grade through twelfth grade.

This year, the main goal of the yearbook staff was to include in the yearbook every person, place and event that made up our school year. Unfortunately, because of the wide spectrum of people and things that contributed to life here at Guilderland High, we were unable to reach that goal. Therefore, we would like to take this opportunity to extend our sincere apologies to every person who was overlooked, and to anyone who was disappointed at the omission of a certain event or academic program.

Although it would be impossible to thank everyone who helped this year, we would like to give special thanks to Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Twombly and Mrs. Zahnleuter, whose constant cooperation made the great task of producing a yearbook much easier.

We would like to thank our adviser, Miss Ellen Murphy, whose help and advice were inestimable, and greatly appreciated.

Although the outsider sees Guilderland Central High as just one large institution, it is really made up of nearly twenty-five hundred little pieces: students, faculty, and personnel. Each is a functioning individual, and each affects the school in his or her own particular way.

This yearbook commemorates these pieces: to each his own, and to each his own way.
